Libraries & Digital Humanities: Projects and Challenges. International Congress DARIAH

Madrid, September 2022

UNED Biblioteca   LiNHD Laboratorio de innovación en humanidades digitales   UNED

Presentation

Fifty years after the creation of UNED, it still maintains its vocation to provide and offer high quality, innovative and accessible educational programmes for everyone, while carrying out research projects in key and pioneering subjects.
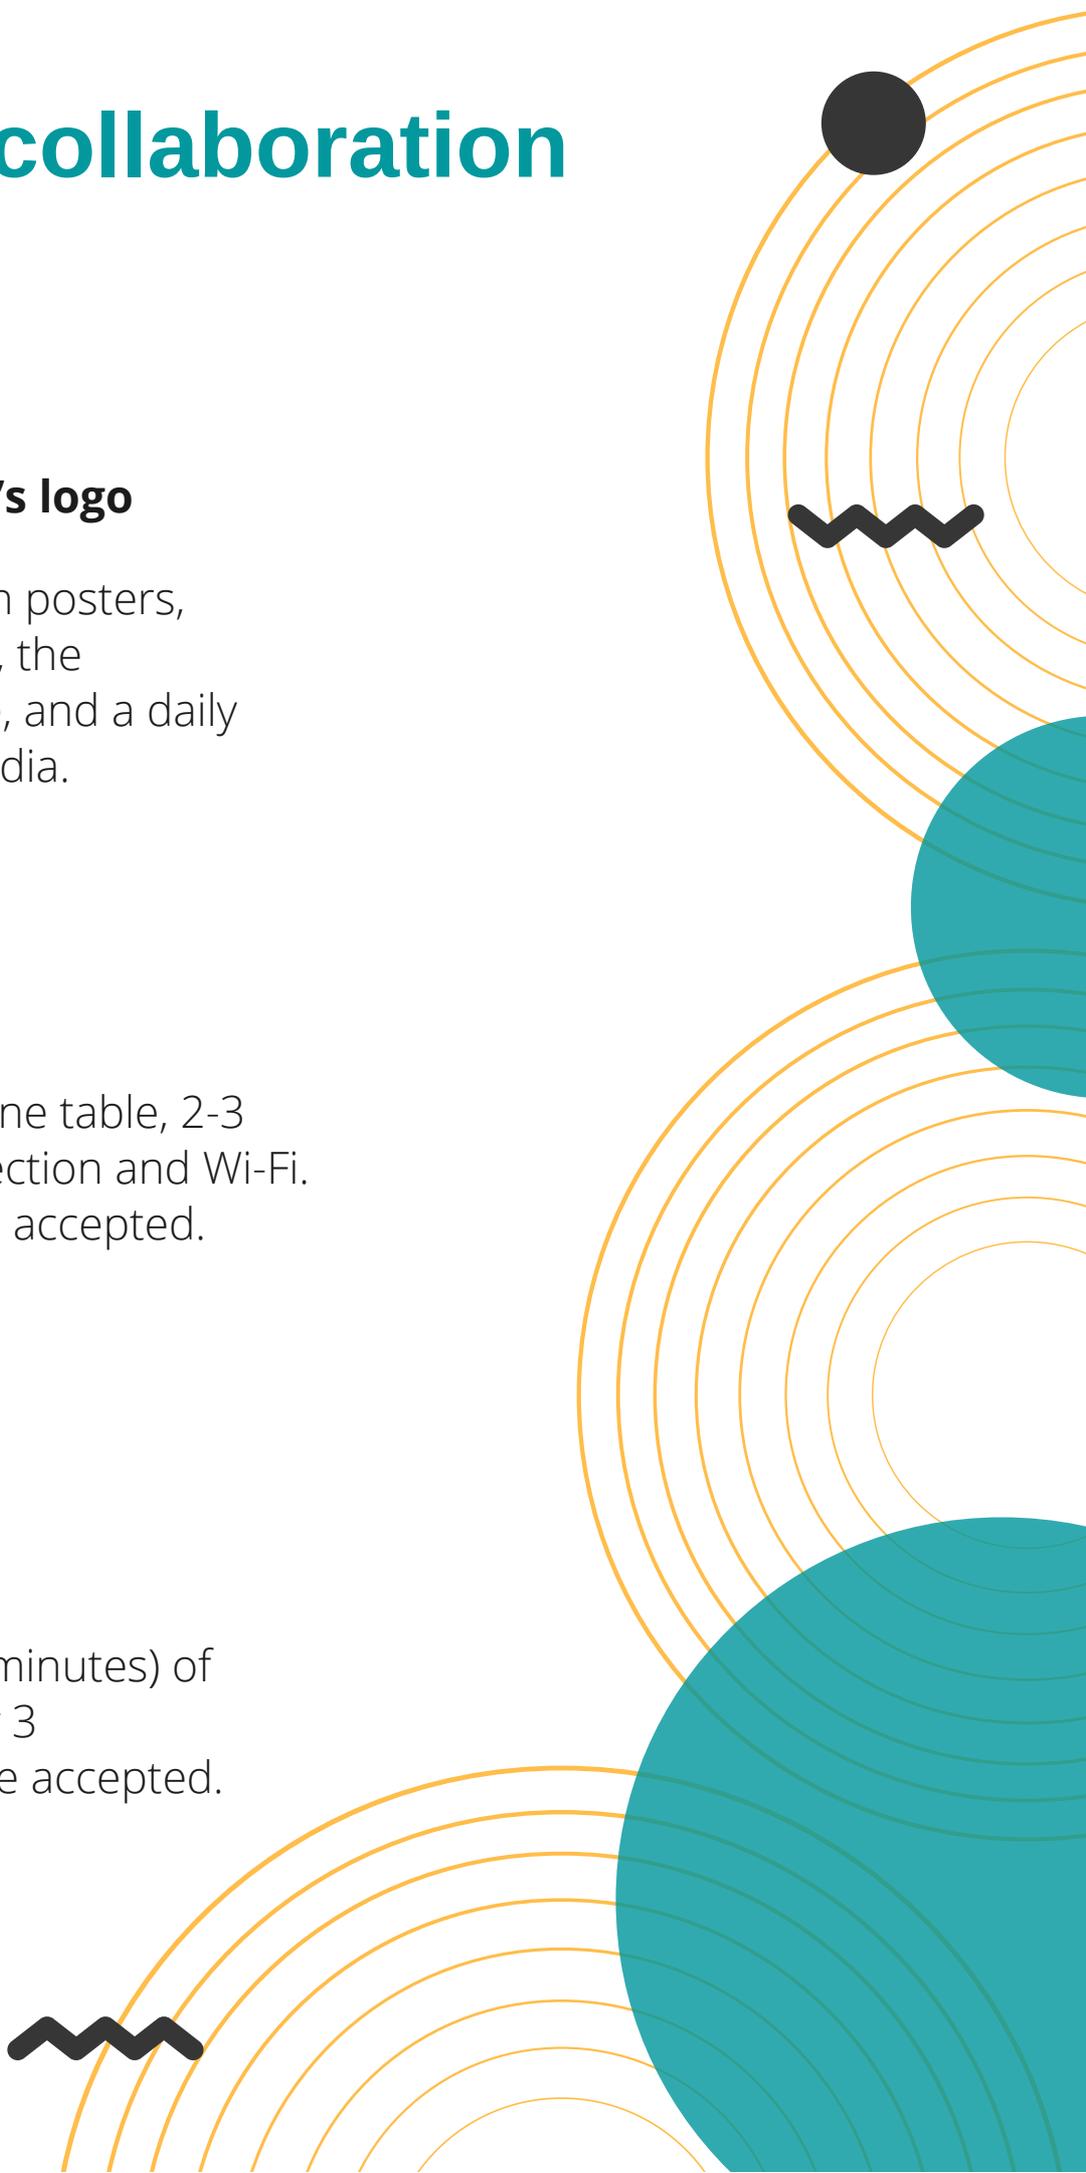

Digital Humanities is one of these subjects, considering it as a broad definition encompassing various projects and areas, all of them having in common the use of technology applied to Humanities. Digital Humanities Laboratories' staff involve professionals from different areas, involving teams that are necessarily interdisciplinary. The experience of information managers, librarians and documentalists, makes them the perfect partners to cooperate on these projects. In UNED, our Library is an essential part of the Laboratory of Innovation in Digital Humanities (LINHD), supporting a wide range of projects in these disciplines, as well as providing advice and training, both in UNED and other institutions.

UNED Library will hold the International Meeting about Digital Humanities and the role of university libraries as essential allies in approaching DH projects, in Madrid in September 2022. This conference will also be inscribed in the Erasmus Staff Training frame, with the participation of librarians interested in this subject and researchers in digital humanities.

We will welcome outstanding specialists in this subject, and we'll also have the opportunity of learning and discussing about relevant projects, teams, and framework for digital humanities. One of these significant events is dedicated to DARIAH, an important Digital Research Framework specialized in Arts and Humanities, of which LINHD is member, CLARIN, Global Digital Heritage and Madrid City Council among others, will attend our Meeting.
